Brain-Cudgeling Reflected In Gestures

How to solve that last English literature examination of your Senior year in five easy lessons: Upper left, Shirley Rinewalt is using the finger-to-lip method, sometimes successful in remembering the name of the dragon killed by Beowulf. Chewing the eraser, as seen demonstrated at the upper right by Anette Edleman, is a substitute for gnashing your teeth—which some teachers don't look on too kindly.

At the lower left, Dorothy Schindler scratches her back with her pencil. This maneuver is in actuality a gesture of unconcern, for Dorothy finally remembered that character in a John Dryden poem she read in October. At the lower right, Richard Teasdale is preparing to use a last resort. He's turning his glasses upside down to see if he can answer the question in that light. But George Rutledge (center) has the answer to the whole problem. George was so cool that moments after he closed his test book, he was sawing wood. George will tell you, "relax kids, it's almost over."

These Pottstown High school Seniors were taking the first half of a 100 minute English examination in Mrs. Elizabeth Huddy's class Tuesday morning when Mercury photographer Gene Orlando captured their anxieties . . . and in George's case, well, answer that yourself.

Man, 99, Has Health Secret; Rest, Raw Eggs In Coffee

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Hale, Hearty at 99

Charles Peine lives alone in the hills of Landis Store.— Tomorrow he will be 99. His regimen for staying alive so long?

"Plunk a raw egg in coffee each morning, drink two cups of the stuff and get 15½ hours rest," is the Peine prescription.

Peine came to America from Germany when he was 76. The reason for leaving his birthplace is vague. But it seems that a man called Adolph Hitler had plans that didn't include prosperity for Peine's butter and egg business in Hanover.

Forced out of a livelihood, Peine and his wife, Marie, took only the household items they could carry and came to America.

PASSAGE FOR the Peines was arranged by their two sons in America, and the couple landed in Philadelphia. They moved to Landis Store about a dozen years ago, and Mrs. Peine, 87, died just last December.

Peine's children are William F., Linfield; Richard, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Louise Hentsh, Devon.

The Linfield son is president of Piersol-Pine Manufacturing company, Oaks. He started a Pottstown business 12 years ago in a garage on the 700 block of Walnut street.

He then spent five years at Pottstown Metal Products incorporated, and now heads a firm doing a nationwide busi-

The man under the baseball hat really is too old for the sport. Tomorrow he will be 99. But Charles Peine, Landis Store, is physically hale and maintains a hearty interest in world politics. He never learned much English, so keeps abreast of events through German language newspapers.

Sun Finally Makes Its Appearance And Promises an Encore Today

Pottstown's favorite subjects, pleasant weather and pretty girls in Spring attire, returned to the scene Tuesday. More of the same is predicted.

It was the first sunny day since last Thursday, and also the first day without rain since the same day.

The forecasts for today and tomorrow are brief and encouraging: No further rain is indicated until late tomorrow at the earliest. Until the scattered thundershowers become a threat, warm, sunny, days are seen today and tomorrow.

Here's The Stranger

Up to Monday, it had rained 12 of the previous 16 days here, and 1.28 inches fell during the weekend.

After a nice Thursday, the farmers grew happier and townspeople grew gloomier. The sun was coquettish Friday, and then it grew cloudy and chill with intermittent rain until just before sunset Monday.

• • •

THE FARMERS are satisfied now, with 5.46 inches of rain during the month—nearly double what is normally realized here in the first 24 days of May.

After a low of 52 Tuesday morning, the thermometer climbed to a high of 72—making temperatures for the day about 4 degrees below normal.

But it was 12 degrees warmer than Monday.

MAN IS JAILED FOR VIOLATION OF THREE CODES

Health, Building, Fire Laws Broken Say Officials

Edward Smith, of 47 Hemlock row, is confined in the borough jail after he was found guilty Tuesday of violating the borough health building and fire codes.

Smith, it was testified, has approximately 100 chickens at the rear of his row house. Many of them have been running at large, neighbors have complained.

Smith also has been warned repeatedly by borough officials to remove wood and junk from his yard, to get rid of the poultry, to demolish the chicken house and a dilapidated outhouse, to make a sewer connection, install a toilet and hook up a kitchen sink.

The warrant for Smith's arrest was sworn out Tuesday by Richard Moser, borough fire marshal and building inspector; and Benjamin Steele, borough health officer.

JUSTICE of the peace Raymond C. Kelley conducted a hearing Tuesday afternoon in borough hall, at which time he fined Smith $50 plus $13.50 costs.

Smith was jailed until he can raise the fine. Kelley suggested the elderly man sell his chickens, and gave him until this

Athletic Staff to Ask Board to Overrule Committee

SAYS REQUESTS ARE JUSTIFIED

The Pottstown Junior and Senior High school athletic staff Tuesday night banded together to call for the school board to pass a request for $2295 in raises and to overrule an activities committee recommendation of only $445 in increases.

In a unanimous decision, the staff of 16 agreed that the original schedule asking $2295 was "equitable and justified," and spoke of "such action as may be necessary" once the school board decision is known.

The coaches also expressed displeasure that the activities committee's recommended wage schedule was made public before the coaches themselves were contacted personally.

Area Witnesses Sodium Burst Over Atlantic

A rocket-riding, 10 pound package of sodium burst into flames high above the Atlantic coastline Tuesday night, setting Pottstown and area telephones abuzzing with calls of inquiry to The Mercury.

The sodium package blossomed into a long, rope-like orange and yellow cloud visible for hundreds of miles.

The sodium and thermite combination was launched from Wallops Island, Va., by a Nike-Asp rocket at 7:48 p.m., Pottstown time.

Shortly after, as the sky darkened, the calls began. Among the first to call The Mercury were John Olseanowski, Phoenixville RD 2, and Bonnie Pronchick, Ellis Woods road.

The show began with the movement of a bright light upward into the twilight sky approximately south-southeast of here.

Local Couple Living Near Disaster Scene

A local couple is living at a U. S. Air Force base at Misawa, Japan, a mere 30 miles from the coastal area that was battered by giant tidal waves that have claimed at least 180 lives.

Jean Lindenmuth, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Endy, 372 Walnut street, has been living in Japan for the past year with her husband, Capt. Leslie Lindenmuth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Lindenmuth, 371 Charlotte street.

The Lindenmuths are no strangers to natural disaster. Several months ago they were caught in the midst of a Japanese blizzard with drifts that measured an official 132 inches.

Mrs. Endy said Tuesday night she "isn't worried."

"They'd let me know if they were in any danger," she said.

Contractor Sues Pennsburg Council For Building Delay

George Hyam, Pennsburg contractor, is suing his borough council.

Grounds for the action are based on a "refusal" by council to grant Hyam a construction permit for a $35,000 house.

Notice of a writ of mandamus was delivered Tuesday to Norman Snyder, council secretary. The writ also asks repayment for damages due to delayed construction.

• Battles over delays between Hyam and Pennsburg's council are not new. But Tuesday's action brought a twist in conditions.

HYAM, as leader of a taxpayers' group, is fighting council's current plan for sewage lines. That long tiff in the courts could bring suits against Hyam.

The grounds for suit? Council accuses Hyam of delaying a civic project.

In the recent squabble council gave Hyam the right to build 11 homes called Lakeview estates. He built four houses and started construction on a fifth. But the fifth project is partially outside the prescribed building area.

There also were other reasons for council calling a halt to excavations for the fifth house. One was the house lacked 42 feet of pavement. Another was that the home was not outfitted for the controversial sewer lines.

C. EDMUND WELLS, Pennsburg solicitor, said, "Hyam applied for his building permit May 2. It normally takes three to four weeks to look into all aspects of any new permit. Council is acting on the matter as fast as possible.

"There is no holdup in council's review of the situation. If Hyam's plan fits our regulations for paving and sewage, he will get his permit without delay," said Wells.

But Henry Meinzer, attorney for Hyam, declared, "We have a good case. It seems that council deliberatly is dallying with its duties.

"Hyam posted a bond for the paving work and the other matters are just stumbling blocks thrown our way," said Meinzer.

Besides a notice of mandamus to council secretary Snyder, Meinzer sent registered letters

TOT DROWNS IN 3 INCHES OF WATER

Youngster is Found In Container by Brother

CHILD WAS SLEEPING PRIOR TO MISHAP

A 13 month old area child drowned early Tuesday afternoon when he toppled into a five-gallon can containing three inches of rain water.

Dead is Bobby Widner, son of Charles and Mary (Owens) Widner, 879 River road, South Pottstown.

The baby was found head down in a garbage container beside the front gate of his parent's modest cottage by a five year old brother, Robert. Its tiny feet were sticking straight up in the air.

The mother said Robert came in the house about 12:15 p.m. and said "Bobby's all wet—he fell in the bucket."

• • •

MRS. WIDNER was in the kitchen. Her husband was working in the back yard.

"Bobby was sleeping on the couch in the front room not more than a minute and a half before the accident," Widner said.

Roller Coaster View Shows Dangers Of 'Shaving Seconds' on Route 83

(Editor's Note: Six persons have died in automobile accidents on a two-mile stretch of Route 83 east of Spring City in the past three weeks. This is the second in a series on the area's most dangerous stretch of highway.)

By PAUL LEVY
(Mercury Staff Writer)

The view from William E. Rittenhouse's living room window is the same view that a ticket-taker on the roller coaster must have.

Stretching out before both of them are the sharp curves and deep dips that make the roller coaster one of the carnival's prime attractions and Route 83 a two-mile stretch of road known as Deadman's Run.

Rittenhouse is the owner of Rittenhouse Tavern on the northwest corner of Park road and Route 83 — the western entrance to Deadman's Run.

Like the others along that two-mile run, he is prepared for unexpected visitors in his front yard at any time. In the last five months three cars have smashed through the high hedges surrounding the property and come to rest against various trees or poles.

MOST OF his visitors are westbound travelers who failed to negotiate the last obstacle in the course, or east bound travelers who were smacked head-on and never had a chance to start the steeple-chase.

The first — or last — obstacle is a sharp curve. To the westbound traveler the curve, at the bottom of an eight-tenths of a mile, 30-degree grade, is "deceptively slight." To the eastbound traveler, the curve seems "normal."

The descriptions are those of Stephen Morris, safety director of the Pottstown Auto club, and a 28-year veteran of the State Police.

Morris doubts that lowering the speed limit will curb the tendency to pick up speed on the downgrade, but believes that larger signs warning of the sharp curve ahead would cut down the number of drivers negotiating the turn at better than the speed limit.

RITTENHOUSE, and Irwin L. Romich, manager of the farm on the southeast corner of the intersection and often host to mangled cars and twisted bodies, have a different solution.

They suggest that the ten-foot embankment on both sides of Route 83 at the curve be leveled off and a shoulder be added to the each lane.

The suggestion, they

Five Directors Renominated

Five directors Tuesday were renominated for three year terms as Memorial hospital directors. Elections will be June 28.

Renominated were Jack Hoffman, J. Harold Yocom, Charles Wylie, William A. O'Donnell Jr. and Arnold Watson.

Thirteen of 15 directors attended the meeting in charge of Wylie. A report showed Memorial is still 5 percent above the admission rate for 11 months of last year.

Four hundred persons were admitted last month and they stayed in the hospital 2682 patient days. Memorial also had 174 operations and 129 emergency cases last month.

A $7500 boiler was installed last week and will be tested within 12 days.

Parents Find Solace In Memories

"A Night of Fun Ends in Tragedy."

What's behind the headline? The story neither begins nor ends with the tragedy.

Behind the headline are 20 years of a good life. Ahead there are years of sorrow.

Ruth was her parents' greatest pleasure, and her accomplishments brought their greatest joy.

Troopers Start Around-the-Clock Vigil on Route 83

A State police patrol was assigned Monday to exclusively patrol Route 83 between Pottstown and Phoenixville — which includes the two-mile stretch called Deadman's Run — and will remain there indefinitely.

The announcement was made by Sgt. Borlick J. Tarlecky, in charge of the Thorndale barracks. The patrol doubles the number of patrol cars in the area in which six persons have been killed in the past three weeks.

As early as 7 a. m., and as late as midnight, area residents reported seeing lines of cars waiting for the State troopers to check their vehicles.

When the troopers weren't checking cars, they were often seen standing next to the patrol car in a conspicuous spot as a warning to drivers tempted to better the 50 mile per hour speed limit.

Sgt. Tarlecky said the two patrols "will remain in this area as long as I'm in charge of the post." The doubling of patrols in the area was accomplished by placing one trooper in each car rather than two in one car. It was prompted by the triple fatal accident

Test 'Spy' Satellite Boosted Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The United States launched an experimental Midas "spy" satellite into orbit Tuesday opening a new chapter in the race for space.

The 2½-ton satellite will test the feasibility of using orbiting space stations to provide almost instant warning of a ballistic missile attack.

The satellite, first of its kind in the world, was boosted aloft from this missile test center at 12:37 p.m., (EST) by a powerful 88-foot Atlas-Agena rocket.

Two hours later, shortly after United Nations reconvened to resume the U2 spy debate, the Air Force announced the mammoth Midas was spinning around the earth.

Lt. Col. Henry Riepe, Midas project director, said radio transmitters in the 22-foot long space messenger are working perfectly.

The "spy in the sky" was equipped with an infra-red scanning device capable of instantaneous spotting and reporting of the launching of a hostile ballistic missile.

This first test satellite was not aimed at a course which would take it over the Soviet Union. Its path covers all territory 28 degrees north and south of the equator.

Within two years, a series of six or eight Midas satellites flying through space are expected to provide complete and constant scanning of the earth's surface.

By flashing the alarm of the blastoff of enemy missiles, they would give the United States 30 minutes to prepare for nuclear bombardment, to send retaliatory rockets on the way and to get persons into shelter.

Midas and a companion satellite system, Samos, will extend aerial espionage further into space and make U2 flights outdated.

Samos is a reconnaissance satellite designed to photograph troop installations, war plants, airfield and missile bases. Once Samos detects enemy missile sites, Midas will keep an eye on them for signs of a firing. Advance models of both are expected to be flying over the Soviet Union by the end of the year, with a full system in operation by 1962.

Transport Plane, Nine Americans, Freed by Reds

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—With unusual speed and a mild protest, the Soviets Tuesday set free a U.S. Air Force C47 transport plane and the nine American occupants forced down in East Germany last Friday.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the plane will fly to West Germany Wednesday with the crew and passengers presumably on board.

The spokesman said word had been received through Soviet channels that the plane is airworthy but the Americans could not depart Tuesday because of bad weather.

One of the group is a woman, Barbara McCash of Atlanta, Ga. The others are Air Force officers and men. They had strayed on a flight from Copenhagen, Denmark, to Hamburg, Germany, west of the Iron Curtain.

The relatively happy ending was signalled by a letter from Soviet Col. Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky, to Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe.

In routine terms, Yakubovsky protested the plane's violation of the frontier of East Germany, a partner in the Communist Warsaw Pact.

He said Soviet fighters took "justified decisive action" to force it down after repeated signals to land were ignored. Indications were the fighters fired warning shots. The Soviet general asked Eddleman to "take measures to exclude such incidents in the future."

Hilo Death Toll Rises; Damage Hits $60 Million

HONOLULU, (AP) — Hilo mourned its 38 dead Tuesday and fearfully waited word on 23 persons still missing. Some were believed carried out to sea Monday by the series of four tidal waves that swamped the port city of Hawaii Island. All the dead and missing were island residents.

Damage estimates soared to 60 million dollars. This would make the disaster the costliest in Hawaii's peacetime history.

Thomas K. Cook, Hawaii County chairman, said, "We need help and we need it badly." He called on islanders to avoid buying extra food for hoarding.

Residents of the shattered city of 26,000 were urged to drink only boiled water.

Many were using candles and lanterns to light their homes.

Two Navy ships were ordered into port elsewhere on Hawaii Island, on the southeastern end of the island chain, to supply electric power from their generators.

Hilo Harbor was closed until debris can be cleared.

RED ISSUE ATTACKED BY U.S. ALLIES

Council Delegates Ask Summit Talks

DEFEAT FOR SOVIET CHARGE PREDICTED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Britain and France lined up behind the United States Tuesday in attacking the Soviet Union for bringing the spy plane issue into the U.N. Security Council.

Statements by the U.S. allies and other delegates at the Council foreshadowed certain defeat for the Soviet Union in its attempts to have the United States branded an aggressor for sending aerial spy flights over Soviet territory.

There were these additional developments on the second day of the Council's debate over the Soviet complaint against the United States:

1. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge laid before the Council the full, dramatic story of the arrest of 11 Soviet spies in the United States since Prime Minister Stalin's death in 1953. It was contained in a 2,000-word statement circulated as an official Council document.

2. Western support mounted for a resolution submitted by four small nations on the Council calling on the Big Four to resume negotiations on major East-West issues with the help of the United Nations.

The resolution by Ecuador, Ceylon, Argentina and Tunisia will probably come before the Council on Friday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told a reporter "We do not consider it helpful." But he did not say he would vote against it.

There was no direct mention in the Council of the U.S. action in sending up a Midas "spy-in-the-sky" satellite, but the fact that such satellites could gather espionage information was raised by several speakers.

Italy's Egidio Ortona drew the Council's attention to the successful launching by the United States of the Midas spy in the sky satellite.

He said the U2 spy plane incident on which the Soviet Union based its case appeared to have little significance if such satellites are considered. The satellites, he added, "clearly have, or will soon have enormously increased capacity for exploring or observing compared with airplanes."

Other speakers referred in general to the ability of satellites to gather espionage information.

Britain's Ambassador Sir Pierson Dixon declared the Soviet Union had failed entirely in trying to prove the United States was an aggressor because of the spy plane flights.

Democrats Pick Convention Head

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida, regarded as a moderate among Southern governors, Tuesday was named chairman of the Democratic National Convention, where civil rights is expected to be a burning platform issue.

A 14-member arrangements committee also selected Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, as keynoter for the convention, which opens July 11 in Los Angeles.

Collins' selection may be intended to bridge the gap between Northern integrationists and Southern segregationists within the party. He has taken a middle-of-the-road stand on civil rights in his own state.

As permanent convention chairman, Collins gains a national stage for whatever political aspirations he may hold. His supporters have boosted him as a coming figure in national politics and he has been mentioned as a possible vice-presidential nominee.

The selection of both Collins and Church was anticipated well in advance of Tuesday's Democratic National Committee meeting.

Collins was acceptable to the Adlai E. Stevenson wing of the party. Sen. John F. Kennedy's camp voiced no public opposition to him.

CLOSED-DOOR INQUIRY SET ON SUMMIT

Senate Committee Will Question Herter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without a dissent, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee agreed Tuesday to open Friday "an objective, impartial inquiry" into the spy plane incident and other events culminating in the summit breakdown.

Announcing this, Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) stressed that every effort will be made to keep politics out of the closed-door inquiry which will begin with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. He reported the vote to go ahead was unanimous, with 12 of 17 committee members on hand.

After a showing of Democratic-Republican unity in the face of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's blowup of the summit talks, a knock-down drag-out word battle erupted in the Senate Monday.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas — who has been preaching unity—tried to bring political temperatures down Tuesday. He was out of town during most of the donnybrook.

Speaking to fellow senators, Johnson said national unity "does not require sweeping facts under the rug—no matter how unpleasant those facts may be."

"But it does require treatment of the facts coolly, calmly and in an objective vein," he said.

Following this same line, Fulbright told newsmen "this is not to be an investigation—but an inquiry or study into the plane incident and the chain of events which preceded it and followed it."

"I am going to strive to keep it to an objective, impartial inquiry in which we will try to understand what took place and the policies that influenced the events," said the chairman of the senate foreign policy group.

Hoffa Sues for $2½ Million; Charges Libel on Paar TV Shows

DETROIT (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa Tuesday sued the National Broadcasting Co., Jack Paar and Robert F. Kennedy, for 2½ million dollars. He charged them with libel and slander.

Hoffa said he had been damaged by statements made on four Jack Paar television shows on which Kennedy was a guest. He listed them as on July 22 and 26, 1959, March 8, 1960 and May 5, 1960.

Kennedy is the former counsel for the McClellan committee which conducted an exhaustive investigation of Hoffa's activities. He also is a brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Democratic presidential nomination candidate.

Hoffa's suit, filed in federal court in Detroit, charged a conspiracy by the defendants to "ridicule, degrade, defame and humiliate Hoffa as being unworthy of holding office or membership in the Teamsters International. They portrayed him (Hoffa) as perpetrator of a fraud on the American labor movement, thereby generating and stimulating hatred and creating a public clamor for punishment."

The suit branded the offending statements as "false and untrue" and said that "by reason of the defamation of character," the stocky labor leader had "been injured in good name, fame, and reputation."

The suit further said that Hoffa's occupation and his holding of office have been endangered and that the statements also affected him "in the community wherein he resides, and in the high regard, confidence and esteem he has hitherto enjoyed in the American labor movement."

The suit also charged that NBC, aided and assisted by Paar, permitted Kennedy to use the network for the "political aggrandizement" of his brother as recently as when he appeared on the Paar show March 8, 1960.

The suit was filed by Hoffa's attorney, George S. Fitzgerald, and was assigned to senior Judge Theodore Levin. It made no breakdown between actual and punitive damages. The defendants have 20 days in which to file a written answer.

Butler Accuses GOP Of Playing 'Footsie'

NEW YORK (AP) —National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler, apparently stung by suggestions that his is a party of appeasement, Tuesday accused the Eisenhower administration of being too soft on the Soviet Union.

Butler contended the Republican administration was taken in by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, let its defenses down and tried to play "footsie with the Russians."

Asked in Washington for comment on Butler's assertions, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said: "Tell him I laughed and said Mr. Butler is the best Democratic national chairman that the Republicans ever had."

New Volcano Born In Chile Seismic Chaos

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Volcanic eruptions added to the massive devastation by earthquakes, tidal waves and landslides in southern Chile Tuesday.

The government said more than 1,000 have died in the four-day disaster and that perhaps two million were homeless.

At least five volcanoes were in eruption, and a new one reported born in the midst of the horror and panic.

Four volcanoes—Osorno, Caulle, Carral and Casablanca—were active in Osorno province about 500 miles south of Santiago, authorities said.

The nearby cities of Llanquihue and Osorno, with a combined population of about 26,000, were ordered evacuated.

A pilot reported 7,350-foot Puyehu volcano near Osorno also was spewing smoke and fire. Farther north, in Cautin province, a new volcano started emitting a column of flame and smoke.

A new earthquake Tuesday afternoon shook Quinchao in Chiloe province, the government reported. It had no details because of chaotic communications.

A tidal wave swept 630 of the 800 people of Queulen, to their death Sunday, the ministry said. Those who survived fled to nearby mountains where many were rescued Tuesday by U.S. Air Force helicopters.

Tidal waves also carried more than 100 to death at Aleta on Tuesday.

Another crushing wall of water 18-feet high engulfed the small seaside resort of Mehuin at 2 a.m. Tuesday. Mehuin is near Queulen and is about 560 miles south of Santiago.

New earthquakes also rocked the mountainous southern provinces, precipitating landslides into the Pacific at Maullin, a town of 1,500 about 600 miles south of Santiago.

Whole villages have been swept away by tidal waves as high as 24 feet.

Other villages with which no contact has been made may have been destroyed by tidal waves or landslides, Interior Minister Jaime Silva told a news conference.

In addition to the more than 1,000 dead, at least 500 are missing, and reports to the government indicate that nearly two million people, or 65 per cent of the population in 11 southern provinces, may be homeless.

NIXON VOTE IN PRIMARY TOPS IKE'S

State Figures Show Kennedy Ahead In Write-In

REPUBLICAN TOTALS OFF 1956 BALLOT

Harrisburg, (AP) — Pennsylvania Republicans gave Vice President Nixon 968,538 votes in the State's April 26 primary — 17,000 more than President Eisenhower received in 1956.

Latest figures compiled from the 67 counties also showed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts easily outscored other party presidential hopefuls in a Democratic write-in contest with 183,019 votes.

Nixon was unopposed on the Republican ballot. Four years ago, President Eisenhower got 951,932 votes but he had opposition from former U. S. Rep. William Knowland of California, who had 43,508 votes.

There were no candidates on the Democratic primary ballot.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York received 11,790 write-in votes in GOP balloting.

Nixon's vote even crossed party lines — he attracted 14,398 Democratic write-ins in incomplete tallies from 65 counties. The figures did not include Clearfield and Sommerset counties.

In second place in the Democratic write-ins was Adlai E. Stevenson, two-time Presidential aspirant, with 28,393 votes. Other write-in candidates and their totals: Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), 13,205; Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), 6,561, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), 2647.

Unofficial primary vote totals showed Republican balloting totalled 980,328 as compared to 996,416 in 1956. The Democratic unofficial total, all write-ins, was 233,825.

A good society is a means to a good life for those who compose it; not something having a kind excellence on its own account.—(Bertrand Russell)

Help Prevent Crime

THE brutal, unprovoked attack of a wrench-wielding youth upon a prominent Pottstown woman shocked the community last week.

The woman was surprised by the boy when he attempted to rob her home. There seemed to be no reason for the beating, yet his alleged threat "I'll kill you" indicated that he intended more harm than he afflicted. It was fortunate she was not seriously injured.

This attack might have been prevented if simple precautions had been taken to make safe her home. As it was, a door was left unlocked. The incident should be warning to other householders to keep doors and windows securely fastened, because even the noise of doing homework might hide the steps of an intruder.

Such precautions also might prevent robberies. Last year, there were 75 burglaries every hour of every day throughout the year in the U. S. Stolen property amounted to $68 million. That total is staggering when it is considered only a little more than half of this property is ever recovered.

Afternoons, such as when this attack took place, are a good time for a burglar to work. Many women go out to visit, attend meetings, or shop. So the professional housebreaker can work undisturbed.

Don't make it too easy for him. Report any suspicious looking characters or door-to-door salesmen without proper credentials, to your police department at once. Always lock your doors when going out, even for only a minute.

However, night time is still preferred by most burglars. Since burglary is a crime of stealth, chances of being seen or heard then are usually much less. It's easier for the prowler to tell whether someone is home during evening hours, too.

Light is the burglars' worst enemy and very few will risk entering if a lamp or two are left burning when you leave. They usually won't take the chance and, there's always a dark house down the street.

Despite repeated warnings and all that has been written, people will often leave their homes or apartments for an evening at the movies, or weekend away, and even a vacation trip without a thought given to the safety precautions recommended.

Windows are often left unlocked and without safety latches to keep them from being opened all the way, the house is dark, garage doors are left open, and sometimes even the front door isn't locked. All the things that make it easy for a burglar.

Apprehending the criminal is the job of your police department. But the war against burglary can effectively be carried out only with the homeowner's full cooperation.

Hope Springs Eternal

MAY'S copious rains have greened the lawn, and the homeowner's season of undiluted optimism climbs to its zenith. This is the year he'll have a really lush lawn, front and rear.

Maybe he seeded his 2000 square feet, the average for US lawns, last Fall; maybe he did it this Spring. In any case, now he is determined to weed, fertilize, mow and water until the cooling winds send him to light a fire on the hearth.

So he is loading himself with equipment. Only the angler with all his rods, reels and lures matches the grass-grower's enthusiasm for anything and everything which promises triumphant success.

About 4,000,000 power mowers will be sold, against only 100,000 in 1946.

The average swardsman also will spend $20 on fertilizer, $25 on rakes, rollers and assorted tools, $10 on pest-killers and another $15 on hose and sprinklers.

These will be used on more than 5,000,000 acres of greensward at a cost of more than $2,000,000,000.

A psychologist says lawns are "a holdover of the Puritan spirit, a concern with cleanliness and neatness." Maybe they are simply a man's offset to his wife's new rug, or just a way of being unstrenuously occupied while out in the sun.

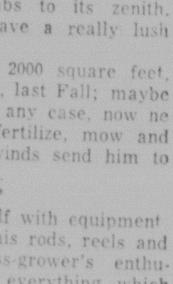

The fervor will abate as the sun grows hotter and the crab grass takes over. All manner of weeds will flourish where they are not wanted. But he will not lose his enthusiasm, for this is the season of high optimism. He knows his lawn will be all green—at least till the snow flies!

Airport Impasse May Breed Inertia

Nobody Benefits

To the Editor: The way I look at it, the complaints of a few may convince the government it shouldn't improve the Pottstown municipal airport.

Then what happens? Inertia. Nobody will benefit.

Pottstown will have a hicktown, unimproved airport there, and the same old squabble will continue about which is better Pottstown or Limerick.

Who benefits? Nobody.

Death of a Town?

To the Editor: Small towns can live or die. They can thrive or just dry up and finally cease to exist.

I predict that for Pottstown if some initiative is showed here. What has happened to the movement to combine with the Pottsgroves? That's the only solution.

The difference between life and death is largely in the initiative of the community itself. If Pottstown wants to die out, let it continue to oppose every progressive movement that arises.

Indictment of Youth

To the Editor: The kids are too wild because the parents can't say no, and give the strap to their darling.

As long as the kids make money, don't worry about their schooling or home and be in bed at 9:30 p. m., they will be wild.

The kids today quit school because they have girls, cigarets and a lot of drink and cars. Insurance? They sure can't afford it.

So, why can't they learn in school? Their minds are only on one thing. The parents don't care as long as they don't have to bother anymore. Mothers worry about sports, running around, spending their money for things that should go for the kids.

How many mothers change children from their faith school to country school because the school is failing the child or is a mischief maker? Yet the parents run down the teachers in front of the child. So, why shouldn't we have wild and spoiled brats around?

Let Pennsylvania get a law that the child must be 17½ or out of 11th grade for work.

The Summit Fiasco

To the Editor: It's a ridiculous situation when Russia demands an apology over the plane incident. We've uncovered espionage on their part in our country many times. Why do they want us to apologize?

It is my firm belief they do not wish to disarm or even dscuss such a program.

In order to avoid making this fact evident they use a ruse to blame us for the summit failure.

Adorers of Cole Porter's talent just couldn't believe their eyes when they saw the singing chorus — a sort of Radio City Music Hall Glee club group—actually turning sheet music pages to read the lyrics of "Night and Day." One word summation of what promised to be a glittering evening: dreary.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

PEGGY O., aged 29, is perplexed about romance.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I have dated a teacher of chemistry for the past four years. He is now 35, and his name is Joe.

"He lives with his widowed mother, who seems to like me fairly well. And Joe protests that he loves me, but he shies away from all talk about marriage.

"Recently, while I was attending our state teacher's convention, I met a high school principal named Arthur.

"He is a widower, aged 34, with a little boy who is 3 years old. And Arthur has been driving over to my town each weekend to see me.

"Joe gets hurt because I don't give him all of my time, but I have decided I have already spent 4 years with Joe, so why waste my life on an old bachelor. Am I right?"

GIRLS, BEWARE of unmarried men past the age of 30 to 35! For they are usually enslaved by the "manana complex" (Put off till tomorrow.)

This means they stall off regarding vital problems by thinking "Tomorrow I'll decide."

They may be talented and attractive, but if they have deferred to a widowed mother for 35 years and have become enslaved by the habit of putting off decisions, they are usually difficult to handle.

A widower, however, has already been housebroken by some other woman.

He is thus more considerate than the bachelor, and far more understanding of women.

Besides, he is not so indecisive. And women can't get their greatest romantic thrills from the kisses of a timid male.

FOR WOMEN regard indecisiveness as a feminine trait. They think men are positive and bold, not uncertain and hesitant.

When they meet a fellow who can't make up his mind and who runs home to mamma to get his problems solved, they subconsciously rate him as only half-man.

Most women react with disgust at the stories of males who use rouge and lipstick or dress in feminine lingerie, for women don't grow romantic about half males.

But there are a lot of other secondary female traits besides the use of rouge or lacy lingerie.

Women themselves tend to feel timid, uncertain and physically weaker than the other sex.

So when they encounter a male who is timid, uncertain and afraid of athletics or fisticuffs, they vaguely recoil.

Interpreting The News

East Reich Is Still Under the Thumb

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Soviet handling of the latest American plane incident raises an important question: Has the need disappeared, for the time being, to insist upon the fiction that Red East Germany is independent.

The Soviets have reverted to treating the East German regime the way a colonial power might handle military occupation of a conquered province.

In the case of the latest incident the Soviets found it unnecessary to insist upon East German sovereignty. This hints that the procedure is not important right now. The whole case reflected little Moscow faith in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev' prediction of another summit conference in six or eight months.

Moscow's attitude was far different when the Soviets several years ago began a campaign to force a summit conference. Then the Soviets, in a situation similar to the case of the U.S. Air Force C47 transport downed over East Germany, insisted that the East German regime was sovereign and had full jurisdiction.

The object was to force the United States to deal directly with the East German regime. This would imply East German sovereignty in advance of a summit meeting, in which East Germany's recognition would be a key question.

The last major plane incident in East Germany was strikingly similar to the case of the U.S. Air Force C47 downed by Soviet units last Friday.

It was on June 7, 1958, that a U.S. Air Force helicopter with nine aboard, lost in a storm, strayed over the frontier of Communist territory and was forced down.

The East Germans made the protests of air space violation. The U.S. personnel were in the hands of East German authorities.

The Soviets turned their backs on all American demands, insisting it was purely a matter of East German jurisdiction. The East German regime demanded direct talks with the United States, which would indicate a degree of recognition.

The nine Americans were held 42 days before the American Red Cross obtained their release. The Soviets all along refused to take any responsibility.

That was when the Soviets were insisting on direct talks between West Germany and Communist East Germany. It also was a moment when Soviet propaganda was carefully building its case for a summit conference.

This time, the Soviets made no pretenses. The strayed C47 was in Soviet hands and they never bothered to say otherwise. The only excuse they gave for applying Soviet jurisdiction was that the East German Communist regime was a member of the Warsaw Alliance of Communist nations.

There seemed little doubt that the Soviet handling of the affair is a sharp slap for East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht and his party.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Local Man, Etc.... Drexel Honor...

★ STORY — A Pottstown man who's teaching in the Wilmington public schools, is given a flattering feature article in the "Staff Reporter," a high class "house journal" that's gotten out by the Delaware school district. He's LeRoy W. Bachman, 24 King street, a Pottstown native who graduated from Pottstown High school in 1931, then came back here to teach in junior and senior high schools. Bachman went to the University of Alabama for his college education, and while teaching in that state met Evelyn Tate, whom he married. The Bachmans have two children, Charles, who's graduating from Pottstown High this year and who's going to Penn State, and daughter Carol, who's in the tenth grade in Pottstown High. Mrs. Bachman has been kindergarten teacher in the Washington school since that class was organized eight years ago. . . .

Bachman

BACHMAN teaches science and industrial chemistry in the H. Fletcher Brown Vocational High school in Wilmington since 1945. He is noted for the winners he placed in the state's science fair. Since 1953 he placed three top winners in the senior division, including this year's. While in Pottstown, Bachman coached baseball, and one of his stars was Bobby Schantz, diminutive pitcher who's still with the New York Yankees. The Bachman family now is building a new home on Mauger's Mill road, near the Halfway House. The male members of the family are doing most of the work themselves.

★ NAMED — R. Gordon Roesler, Limerick Church road, was named assistant sales manager of the Pottstown plant of the Doehler-Jarvis division of the National Lead company. This was announced yesterday by Howard W. Bartholomew, plant manager. Roesler is assistant to John Loughran. He's a native of the Pottstown area, was graduated from Pottstown High school in 1938. He joined Doehler-Jarvis in 1939 in the order department. After three years in the military service, he returned to Pottstown in the sales department in 1946. A year later he was named assistant to the plant sales manager, and in 1957 he became sales administrator. Roesler is married and the father of two boys.

Bortner is employed in the resin department of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company. He works there six and sometimes seven days a week. Then three nights a week he commuted to Philadelphia. He is married and the father of a daughter, Karen, who it at Penn State university.

Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE WHITE blood cells are the policemen of the body.

They patrol, they rest in station houses, they fight off enemies and they retire just like any human policeman.

In a normal, healthy person, these white cells circulate in the bloodstream for varying periods. This is their beat—their patrol work.

After a time, the white cells go to their various stations. Some travel to the liver, others to the lungs, still others to the spleen, lymphatic tissues and the bone marrow. Here they rest until they are needed to answer an emergency alarm.

Whenever a disease germ invades the body, they swarm out of their stations to answer the riot call.

They make a stubborn fight. Whether they are successful or not depends upon the condition of the body and the help that the cells receive from any drugs used in treatment.

Usually, though, the life of the white cells is a peaceful one. Often they spend long periods in their station houses without having to mobilize to fight off any invaders.

If they remain inactive for any length of time, they are pensioned off. The cells in the spleen and liver are broken up.

Those stored in the lungs go through the windpipe and are eliminated either by coughing them up from the lungs or by swallowing them and shunting them out through the bowel.

Yet, even while being taken off the payroll, so to speak, the white cells are dutiful policemen. They perform a useful sweeping-up job.

While traveling through the windpipe and passages of the lung, they sweep up bacteria, foreign particles and even dust.

The retiring cells, which travel through the wall of the gut into the bowels, pick up bacterial flora of the intestines and sweep them out of the body.

It's a pretty effective police force, don't you think?

Moose Discuss Safety Program

A plan for supplying reflector stickers to invalids and families with infants to aid in avoding being trapped by fire was discussed at a meeting of the Loyal Order of Moose lodge 369 Monday night at the lodge hall.

The State LOM is sponsoring the program in which stickers are given to families with a member or two not able to move easily in event a fire breaks out. The stickers are to be attached to windows of homes and can be spotted easily by firemen because of lights flashing from the trucks.

The local lodge will send Governor Harry J. Wells to the Moose national convention in Chicago June 13 to 18, it was decided.

The following members attended the State convention Friday to Sunday in Pittsburgh: Earl B. Bechtel, deputy supreme governor of eastern Pennyslvania Moose; Raymond Missimer, secretary of district 3 of eastern Pennsylvania; John Suloman, secretary of the Potts town lodge, and Wells.

Twenty members attended the meeting.

2 Farmhouses Are Auctioned in Chester County

James J. Moore, incorporated, and Raymond McPherson, of Philadelphia, have sold two colonial farmhouses in Chester county.

Melvin L. Feroe Jr., 67 North Franklin street, purchased a stone home and three acres of land from Mr. and Mrs. Victor Slocum at Pigeon creek road and Fulmer road.

Ralph T. Richards, Kenilworth, bought the colonial farmhouse of Mr. and Mrs. John Lubold on Ellis Woods road, with two acres of land.

The two auctions were conducted in the rain, Saturday, and brought large crowds, with active bidding on the homes and parcels of ground.

IN THE Slocum transaction, Feroe, through agent Robert Specht of the Robert DeLong agency, bid $14,550. Samuel Aaronson, an adjoining landowner, purchased eight acres of woodland for $6000.

Robert E. Wilson, Pottstown Star route, bought six acres of open ground on Pigeon Creek road and Fulmer road. The entire real estate transaction brought the Slocums $25,200.

A Philadelphia art speculator bought two primitive oils for $98.50 apiece and an array of antiques all brought good prices, according to Rowland Hobson, of James J. Moore, incorporated.

Richards, the Kenilworth auctioneer who recently sold and moved from his own large farm property on Route 83, paid $11,200 for the Lubold farmhouse and land. There were no household goods for sale at the Lubold auction.

Hobson said both Feroe and Richards intend to restore their new properties, which date back to colonial times.

Feroe is expected to make the home his residence while Richards purchased the other real estate for resale.

Producers Threaten To Close Down All Broadway Theaters

NEW YORK (AP) — Producers Tuesday pledged total blackout of all Broadway theaters if union actors stage hit-and-run strikes against one show at a time. It would be the first complete shutdown of the Great White Way since 1919.

"We will close all productions," announced Burton A. Zorn, special counsel for the League of New York Theaters.

Thus the producers answered the threat by Actors Equity Assn., to close one show at a time for one night only in its drive to win pensions and pay raises for more than 3,000 actors.

Expiration of the Equity contract May 31 has brought Broadway face to face with its worst crisis in more than 40 years. Show business was pessimistic that a contract agreement can be worked out in time to avert a strike next week.

A walkout—led by some of the top names in the theater—would close all 23 Broadway shows and at least seven others on the road. Plans for autumn productions already have been suspended because of the deadlock.

Twenty-five hundred Equity members marched four blocks to Times Square early Tuesday after their final curtains. Among them were such stars as Helen Hayes, Lauren Bacall, Gertrude Berg, Walter Pidgeon, Julie Newmar and Jackie Gleason.

In an Astor Hotel mass meeting, they worked out their hit-run plan. It was proposed that Equity single out one show at a time and call a union meeting of its cast shortly before curtain time. This would force the return of thousands of dollars to ticket holders and snarl the attendance schedule. Most shows are sold out well in advance of each performance.

The next night, according to Equity's battle plan, the cast would report back for work and another theater would be the target. Equity threatened to sue if a total blackout was called as a countermeasure.

Zorn said the producers "regard this hit-and-run tactic as a deliberate effort on the part of Actors Equity to destroy the League of New York Theaters."

Equity counsel Herman E. Cooper replied: "If the League should respond with a Broadway blackout of all shows it must assume the responsibility for aboiding agreements as the alternative to a fair settlement."

"The contemplated cost to the producers of a total blackout would not only inconvenience all parties but would considerably exceed the cost of a settlement," he said.

Equity is demanding wage increases and improved sanitary safety conditions backstage. But the pension plan is the chief stumbling block. Producers claim it would eventually have to cover eight other unions — stage-hands, musicians, electricians and the like—and force up ticket prices 25 per cent.

Present ticket scales for top Broadway musicals already run as high as $9.90.

With the approach of the summer vacation season, New York expects great throngs of tourists, many of them holding show tickets they reserved months ago. A strike at this time would cut heavily into Broadway's 60-million annual gross.

Mindful of this, Mayor Robert F. Wagner brought the two sides into stepped-up negotiating sessions in an effort to avert a strike.

Eartha Finds Things Stolen, Pets Hungry

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Singer Eartha Kitt returned to her Hollywood Hills home Tuesday and found personal effects worth $30,000 missing, her two servants gone, and her wide assortment of pets hungry.

A few hours later, police recovered from a downtown pawnshop some of the missing valuables. The husky voiced Negro entertainer identified $2,200 worth of bracelets, rare coins and small pieces of jewelry.

Police said the pawnbroker identified photos of two missing servants as the persons who pawned the items Friday.

Miss Kitt, who returned from Las Vegas, Nev., told police the servants left unfed her three dogs, three cats, peacocks, doves and a pheasant.

Police issued an all-points bulletin for Carlos and Martha Caballero—caretakers hired by Miss Kitt three months ago. The singer said she received a card from Martha Caballero apologizing for an abrupt departure and blaming family trouble in Peru. The card was postmarked San Ysidro, a town near the Mexican border.

Family of Captive U2 Pilot Waits For Word as Nations Deliberate

POUND, Va. (AP)—Three miles up Mill Creek near the white farm house, two girls were lost. Their grandmother was worried.

"Did anyone check the barn?" asked Mrs. Oliver Powers, 54, as she paused under a lofty shade tree.

The disappearance of Becky Melvin and Diane Mead—both five-year-olds—took the mind of the silver-haired lady at least briefly from a deeper worry.

Her only son, Francis Gary Powers, 30, was a prisoner of the Soviets, charged as a spy after his U2 aircraft was downed May 1 over the Soviet Union.

The search here finally turned up the girls who had been exploring a vacant house. They were herded into the home and promised a spanking by their mothers.

There are five sisters in the missing pilot's family. Jessica, married, had to go back to her job in Washington after several days here. But Janica stayed to help Jean, Joan and Joyce, who still live in Wise County, comfort their parents.

"The family's doing pretty well," reported Oliver Powers, the father, pumping a foot-pedal sewing machine the other day in his Norton shoe shop.

"My wife takes a spell every night when she gets to reading the papers and all the mail we get. Then she starts worrying. It hurts."

Powers, 55, has expressed a great deal of concern about the strain being placed on his wife's weak heart.

Concern is widespread in the Norton and Pound area for the family and the safety of their son.

"Here in our quiet mountain setting," one businessman commented, "we sometimes think of the world's problems as very remote. But not now."

A big question hanging now over the Powers family is whether the father will be able to accept offers to fly him to the Soviet Union to try to get his son freed. Powers has even offered to exchange himself as a prisoner for his son.

"It wouldn't be right to spend a man's money to go over there and not be able to see my son," Powers stated. "After the news reporters get to him, it might be a little easier for the rest of us."

Powers closed up his shoe shop Monday and was believed to be in Georgia Tuesday, but the purpose of his mission is not known.

PAY BOOST STILL ASKED BY COACHES

released this statement to The Mercury after a meeting lasting until midnight:

"The coaching staff takes cognizance of the public report made by the chairman of the activities committee, which will recommend only a small portion of the wage request made by the staff.

"The staff has not changed any part of its original request for equitable and justified increases, but it will reserve such further action as may be necessary until the school board meets and makes a definite decision.

"The coaches note particularly that the preliminary recommendation to the school board nowhere approaches satisfaction, and we urge the school board to continue to consider the original requests.

"The staff will meet again whenever necessary to study whatever action the school board may take.

"The athletic staff has faithfully co-operated with school board requests for information concerning coaching positions and salaries.

"We hope the results of these questionnaires will be studied carefully before the school board makes its decisions.

"We particularly regret we were not informed personally of the activities committee decision before it was made public.

"We felt we would be contacted using the proper channels just as we have always used these channels in our dealings with the school board.

"We still have not been notified officially of these recommendations, and must reserve any further comment until such time as this is done."

DURING BUDGET hearings, the athletic staff, acting on the unanimous endorsement of its 16 members, prepared a request for a new wage schedule boosting the budget for these posts from $7105 to $9400.

Originally, votes to accept and to kill the package request both died for lack of second.

The situation was sent to the activities committee, which came up with the recommendation—to be offered to the school board June 13—that $445 of these requests be granted this year.

Carl M. Hofheinz, chairman of the committee, said the other requests be considered in future years, with a continuing study to be made of several factors involved in the teachers' outside duties.

The Pottstown coaching staff is paid for its out-of-school work on supplementary contracts. Each coach is also an instructor, and has a separate salary for his teaching duties.

In addition to the schools listed here, the survey by the school board activities committee covered 26 other schools.

SENIOR HIGH football coaches at 7 area schools out of 31 earn more for their outside work than Pottstown's head coach.

Senior High basketball coaches at five of these schools are ahead of Pottstown in their pay. The Senior High girls' basketball coach stands 27th on a list of 34 area schools.

The Senior High girl's hockey coaches schedule shows the Pottstown coach 27th out of 31 such positions in the area.

The Junior High football coach stands sixth in a list of 34 head coaches, and the Junior High basketball coach is 11th out of 26 similar positions.

If the coaches were granted the raises they seek, it would make the Pottstown Senior High football coach second out of 31, Senior High basketball — third out of 31.

The coaches in the girls' sports would be 15th and 17th on their lists, and the Junior High positions would then stand fourth and second on their schedules.

Master Mechanic Alex Allison of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, was honored recently for 35 years of service with the company.

At a luncheon in the Firestone cafeteria, Allison, 256 Lee avenue received from Roger S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Plastics company, a 35-year diamond service pin and a $100 check. E. T. Handley, general manager, and E. H. Hunnicutt, general factory manager, added their congratulations.

In 1925, Allison joined Firestone in Akron, Ohio. After beginning in the rim plant, he was transferred to Plant 1 where he remained until 1939.

His service in Akron was interrupted by the 1939-40 World's Fair where he worked with installation and maintenance of the equipment. Back in Akron, he was associated with the gun mount section of the company. Then, traveling with an engineering group, he visited Georgia and North Carolina before going back to plant 1 in Akron.

HE WAS SENT TO Pottstown in 1946, but he only stayed here one year before he was off to the Bombay, India plant. He returned to his home base — in Akron — after six or seven months,, and in 1949 came to Pottstown to stay.

Allison was born in Scotland, came to America at an early age and lived in Ohio and Indiana. His schooling includes trade school and special classes at the University of Akron.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison are the parents of two daughters they have one grandson. Allison is active in the Antique Automobile club of Pottstown.

Fund Raising Is Described to Inter-Service Club

Professional fund raiser Arthur S. Montgomery told ten members of the Inter-Service Club council Tuesday that there is a lot of misconceptions about professional fund raisers.

He said many persons believe a fund raiser gets as high as 42 percent for a fee, which is very untrue, he said.

According to ethics fund raisers do not accept a percentage but rather a fixed fee depending on the number of weeks needed to complete the fund drive.

A contract setting the fee is drawn up before the campaign begins.

Meeting at the Howard Johnson restaurant at noon, Montgomery told the group he began his fund raising work in 1924. He said during the YWCA drive some 1400 brochures have been mailed to residents in the Pottstown area.

He added that he was pleased with the results so far and is confident that the drive will be successful. He expects to be in Pottstown another four weeks.

Presiding at the meeting was the Rev. John L. Smoker, council chairman.

Living Animal Cells In Glass Bowls May Produce Anti-Virus Medicines

PASADENA, Calif. These products are called antibodies because they attach themselves to foreign substances, such as viruses, and neutralize any toxic effect they might have on the human body.

"While tissues cells of humans and the lower animals have survived for years in glass dishes," Caltech said, "their production of cells products generally has been limited to a few days. This is the first time that such cells have produced antibodies for so long a period and in such quantities."

Cells taken from the spleen of a rabbit were placed in a bowl containing nutrients normally supplied by the blood. A filtering system screens out the antibodies and permits them to be withdrawn for analysis.

Caltech said scientists hope to perfect a system "that will so accurately duplicate normal environment that cells will not only flourish and divide indefinitely but also will continue their specialized work as chemical factories. Some cells would produce antibodies; others would produce hormones."

Electronics, Aircraft Remain Steady as Market Loses Steam

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After eight straight advancing sessions, the stock market so far this week appears to be consolidating its position.

Except for electronics and aircraft issues, the market seems to have lost most of the steam pumped into it by apprehension over what failure of the summit meeting would bring.

However, Wall Street experts weren't worried by the interruption of the rally. They feel it will start up again before long.

"It seems to us that a period of consolidation should be witnessed here in order for the list to build a base for resumption of recovery efforts," said Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co.

"We believe this will take place and prices will again show a better tone."

A. M. Kidder & Co. observed that the market seems to be in a position to make further progress in the next month or two, but added that until the business outlook for the second half clarifies, strength may be intermittent and rather selective.

"The first technical obstacle to be overcome is the February-April double top around 638 on the Dow Jones industrial average," said Kidder.

"Optimism over heavy defense spending should be guarded against until we know more about the intentions of Russia.

There is a possibility that the market has seen its low point, according to Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co.

"If the breadth-of-the-market index improves," he said, "then potential bases forced could indicate (the market will surpass) the 660-680 level on the industrial average and 149-151 on the rail average."

SYMBOLIC WARNING—Charred ground, a broken sign and snapped off Route 83 sign post remain as evidence of the dangers of excessive speed. Thorndale State Trooper Richard Czarnota watches the road, a warning to other drivers tempted to shave seconds off the less than three minutes needed to legally—and safely—negotiate Deadman's Run. It was at this intersection of Park road and Route 83—the Western end of Deadman's Run—that a local girl and two young Philadelphia men died in a violent crash early Sunday morning. Killed in the crash were Ruth Lenora Dickinson, 20, and George R. Winters and Gerald Corrado, both 21.

argue, would allow the driver to see what's ahead and have room to pull off the road if an oncoming car swings out of control.

Area residents agreed that the curve is the worst point in the two-mile stretch and that the first order of business must be to solve that problem.

BUT THERE are other problems that need correcting before the road is safe and Deadman's Run loses its nickname.

And first on their list is highway lighting. The entire two mile stretch of two-lane concrete highway—in fact the majority of Route 83—has no highway lighting.

Drivers and area residents say that the lack of lighting at night causes a constant flicking on-and-off of high beams, often blinding oncoming drivers. They also claim that overhead highway lighting would aid drivers on frequent nights when fog envelopes the area.

Sgt. Bolick J. Tarlecky, in charge of Thorndale State Police barracks, admits that area residents have many valid points, but denies that this is one of them.

"Headlights are sufficient on a concrete highway because the concrete tends to reflect the headlights," he explained. "I admit that lights are needed where the highway is black macadam." (Such an area is between Route 100 and the R. T. Richards farm on Route 83.)

THIRD ON the list of complaints is the lack of adequate warning signs of the approaching curve. Morris suggested that the five-foot rectangular signs with black stripes on a yellow base warning "Danger—Sharp Curve Ahead" be placed at the approaches to the curve.

The State Highway department no longer produces such signs, according to Nelson M. Gehman, manager of the Pottstown Auto club, who suggested in its place large fluorescent signs with the same message of warning.

Currently the regular curve warning signs with the bent arrow warn the approaching driver of the sudden change in direction — but gives little warning of the sharpness of the turn that the driver often hits at speeds in excess of 70 miles per hour.

Another sign which residents would like to see posted is a no passing sign. They claim that many of the accidents are caused when motorists, annoyed with slow-moving or legal limit drivers, attempt to pass on a hill or going into a curve.

The problem, they admit, is complicated by the large number of trucks that use the road. The trucks, especially the tractor-trailer rigs, often chug up the high grades at less than 30 miles per hour—adding to the temptation to pass.

RESIDENTS also charge that the trucks illegally travel in pairs and groups without the required 500-feet separation between trucks. State law makes the 500-feet separation mandatory to allow drivers to pass slow moving trucks on just such a one-lane in each direction highway.

Sgt. Tarlecky, in an attempt to halt "truck convoys and give the driver the legal passing room he needs and is allowed," has ordered his men to arrest the drivers of trucks who follow too closely.

He also said a no passing zone might be a "good idea," but explained that "signs won't prevent a careless or reckless driver from attempting to pass. It is human failure, not the failure of laws and road conditions that account for accidents."

Gehman agreed that it is human failure that causes accidents. "There are already too many signs today. The driver can't read them all, and after a while doesn't attempt to do so. In the two accidents recently where six people were killed, it was too much speed and too much carelessness each time."

(The third article in the series will discuss the major problem for accidents on Route 83 — Deadman't Run — and everywhere else — excessive speed, and what can and is being done to halt the heavy-footed driver.)

Parents Find Solace In Memories

was transformed into a poised teen-ager.

They were happy when she took her first steps, apprehensive as she entered First grade and proud of her courageous outlook.

LIKE ALL CHILDREN there were times when she caused her parents worry—the illnesses, the mischief, the first trip away from home alone. But this was growing up. This was part of life.

Ruth L. Dickinson was a pretty brunnette. She was popular with her high school companions at Owen J. Roberts High school, and, later with her co-workers at Phoenixville hospital.

She was known as a happy-girl who loved life. A devoted girl who took pride in her work as a nurse's aid. A girl with a reputation beyond reproach.

She chose a career of aiding the ill.

The job was anything but glamorous. It was hard work. But rewarding.

* * *

A SMILE from a girl like Ruth Dickinson at times does more for a patient than medicine. And Ruth was the type girl who smiled easily and often.

She was known as a credit to herself and her parents.

Like most dedicated persons she took pleasure from the small recreations of life. A night of bowling, a drive in movie, or perhaps watching an auto race. There was never any harm in her recreation. Last year she attended the May 30 race at Indianapolis.

Her recreation was little enough after caring for the ill.

ON SATURDAY night Ruth, and a girl companion, took the opportunity of free time to enjoy a carefree evening.

They went to an all night bowling alley near Reading. A simple pleasure. Then Ruth took a friend home and was returning to the hospital.

Fate stepped in.

Two young men left a party. They traveled Route 83. The same route Ruth Dickinson was using.

Police say the boys' car was on the wrong side of the highway.

It hit Miss Dickinson's car. The story became a headline.

And the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Dickinson, have only one thing left to comfort them.

The memory of their daughter.

Troopers Start Around-the-Clock Vigil on Route 83

early Sunday morning.

At the same time, Stephen Morris, safety director of the Pottstown Auto club and a State trooper for 28 years, charged that it was the excessive speed of "far too many drivers" with causing the excessive number of accidents along Deadman's Run — between Park road in East Vincent township and Route 23 in East Pikeland township.

THE DRIVERS along that stretch of road, he noted, "too often gamble blindly — and lose the gamble. Common sense dictates that drivers should police their own driving habits."

One of the two patrol cars now assigned to the Route 83 section will be the regulation gray State police car and the other will be an unmarked car.

State troopers have been given orders by Tarlecky to "keep a sharp watch" for drivers who make the long downhill grades that mark Deadman's Run into a racetrack.

The patrols will be on 24-hour duty, answering the charges of area residents who claim that there has been no police protection during the early morning hours of 4 a.m. to 8:30 a.m.

Sgt. Tarlecky said that there has been a regular patrol in the area "at all times" in the past. "It's impossible to be everywhere at the same time," he pointed out, "no matter how many men are available."

Nelson M. Gehman, manager of the Pottstown Auto club, called the difference between Monday and Tuesday on Route 83 "the difference between night and day."

Gehman explained that whenever troopers have been assigned in the past not only to make patrols but to conduct regular checks so that drivers know that they are being watched, speed has dropped and the accident rate fallen off.

"Whenever a driver sees an officer the tendency is for his foot to lighten on the gas pedal," Gehman concluded.

Death Is Routine Fare for Route 83 Families

pregnant passenger in one of of the cars.

The pregnant woman was the passenger in the car driven by her husband. He had stopped behind Rittenbaugh who had signaled for a left turn from the eastbound lane. Both cars were smashed by a third car—sending Rittenbaugh's car 150-feet diagonally across the highway.

The pregnant woman, Mrs. Thomas Solliday, of Norristown RD 1, was rushed to Phoenixville hospital by Rittenbaugh. Doctors treated her for bruises and noted that she "had narrowly missed losing the child."

"But we really won't know until the child is born," her husband said Tuesday night.

THE ACCIDENT was the second for Rittenbaugh while turning into his driveway at the exact spot where two Reading women and a Norristown Army sergeant were killed on May 7. The first accident, nine years ago, also demolished Rittenbaugh's car.

"I escaped from both of those okay," he explained, "but what about next time?"

Mrs. Rittenbaugh was home alone when the two cars collided on May 7, killing Sgt. Lester G. Buzzard, and Jean C. Herring and Catherine Ott, both of Reading.

"All I could think of was that Frank had been injured," Mrs. Rittenbaugh related. "I ran out of the house. One car was wrapped around a telephone pole . . . a body was on the ground . . . someone was screaming . . . one of the women was halfway through the windshield."

"She hasn't slept well since," her husband interjected, "and with the cars and trucks playing tag all night, it's a wonder that either of us ever can."

RITTENBAUGH described one of the drag races that area residents charge occurred regularly in past Summers.

"I watched the whole thing one night last Summer. Four or five cars stopped at the top of the hill. Two of them lined up alongside each other and one of the drivers stood in front, holding his handkerchief and counting.

"It was like watching a movie. One . . . two . . . three . . . go! It was a terrible roar. Just as one car neared the bottom of the hill, an oncoming car came into view.

"I waited for the crash. It didn't come that time, but it will."

THINGS HAVE gotten so bad on the Deadman's Run racetrack that the visiting grandchildren, Sherrie Lynn, 3, and Thomas Craig Rittenbaugh, 5, aren't allowed out of the house without their grandmother.

"It's a shame for the children, but what can you do?" Mrs. Rittenbaugh wondered.

Their neighbors, the Fooses, have a problem that's twice as large. They have four children, Robert, 8, Matthew, 6, Sophia, 5, and Cynthia, 3.

"We don't allow Robert and Matthew to stand in the shelter to wait for the school bus," Mrs. Foose explained. "It's too close to the road, so they stand on the bank until the bus comes and all the traffic stops."

* * *

ROBERT and Matthew attend East Pikeland Consolidated school and know that when they're supposed to be watching their younger sisters, that they can't wander off to play baseball.

"We saw all the accidents, so we watch them real good," Robert noted Wednesday night as he did his homework on the porch.

The other three children chimed in: "We saw the accident. We saw the accident."

Mrs. Foose smiled sadly. "We came home just after the big accident (May 7) out front. Robert rushed to help and I took the children to bed. I was afraid to come down and look at the accident, but Robert told me it was horrible.

"He couldn't sleep that night and neither could I," she remembered.

This, then, is life as seen from the ringside seats at Deadman's Run racetrack.

Clothes Care

By Maurice Miller

"Is It Dangerous To Store Garments at Home?"—Mrs. U. M. V.

Dear Mrs. U. M. V.:

No, not if you take proper care. Too often we put garments away when they have not been professionally cleaned. It's amazing how beetles and moths can sniff out edible food stains. In satisfying their appetites they also chew holes in good garments.

There are other points to check when storing garments at home. Be certain that all the pockets are empty before putting the garment away. A plastic pencil was left in a gray flannel suit. The dye from the pencil was converted by heat in home storage to make a yellow stain on the pocket. Make certain all pockets are empty.

Be careful of storing white wedding gowns in boxes with colored plastic windows. The color can transfer to the dress in storage. Clear plastic storage bags have stained garments, too. However, the bag doesn't cause the transfer of color, but putting several garments in one bag holds them closely together and this contact transfers the dye from one garment to another, on damp days.

Beware of a leaky roof in home storage. Oil and rust have been known to stain garments through a roof leak. Incidentally, we were able to remove this staining.

Home storage can be satisfactory if you take ordinary care and be certain your garments are clean before you store them.

To solve your fabric problems send your questions to Clothes Care, Madison and Cross Sts., Pottstown, Pa.

Rain to Help, Not Hinder Roses For Annual Show Slated June 4

The perpetual rains which came with the traditionally flowery month of May, may have dampened plans of many but to those who plan to enter Pottstown's annual rose show, it means more roses to vie for the perpetual trophies.

According to publicity chairman for the show, Victor Ayres, the rain will hold back the buds for a better show scheduled for Saturday, June 4.

At that time roses should be at their peak because now they are only in tight buds.

Moisture makes good foliage as well as flowers, Mr. Ayres pointed out, and many of the points are based on the foliage.

He stressed the fact that the judges have keen eyes. They can tell how much you have fed your bushes just by looking at the leaves.

The annual event, sponsored by the Pottstown Rose society, will take place at North Coventry Elementary school.

Rules for exhibition are as follows: one, rules of the American Rose society for exhibiting and judging will prevail. These rules include form, color, substance, stem and foliage, correctly named.

Two, exhibitors are permitted to make as many entries as they desire in each color class, but only one entry of the same named variety; three, at the time of judging, an exhibition bloom should be in the most perfect phase of its beauty. Usually this is when the bloom is half to three quarters past open depending upon the variety—also disbuded.

Four, an open bloom is a rose which is more than three-quarters part to fully open. Sometimes stamens will be visible depending upon the variety.

Five, all roses entered for competition must be grown outdoors by the exhibitor except in classes specified; six, the hall will be closed during the time of judging except to the judges, clerks and tabulators.

Seven entries will be accepted from 7 to 11 a. m.; eight, only points in classes one through 78 will be eligible for sweepstakes: nine, all containers for the exhibition will be furnished except the arrangement classes. These are to be furnished and arranged by the exhibitor.

Ten, exhibits may not be removed without special permission; 11, the society will not be responsible for loss or damage of personal property; 12, the committee has the right to remove wilted or inferior exhibits.

Thirteen, if a class does not warrant a blue ribbon, judges may continue to second, third and so forth; 14, points four, three, two and one mean—blue ribbon, four points; red ribbon, three points, yellow ribbon, two points, and honorable mention, one point.

Fifteen, all perpetual trophies are the property of the Pottstown Rose society and must be returned by May 1 of the following year; 16, all perpetual trophies must be won three years in succession for permanent possession.

Seventeen, roses not placed in proper class and foliage conditioned with oils, polish, wax will be disqualified; 18, to be eligible for the Helen Haws and Eleanor Hoffman trophy, persons must register at desk; 19, to be eligible for the Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Selagyi Jr. trophy, persons must register at desk.

Twenty, all winners of trophies are requested to leave name and address with Mrs. Helen Haws; 21, queen of the show—second, third and fourth best rose will be selected from classes one through 25 and class 53 as listed in the ninth annual show booklet.

Twenty-two, generally you need not cut exhibition roses, stems, blooms and so forth more than 18 inches in length to be best for judging.

Hats Are Necessary Part of Costume Say Women Who Love Millinery

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

One definition of a successful feminine executive is: a woman who wears her hat in the office.

A quick look around the glossier advertising, publishing and fashion firms in any big city bears out this view. It's easy to spot the boss lady—she's the one wearing the hat.

Some prominent women in and out of New York recently aired their views on the subject of hats:

MRS. CAROLINE K. SIMON, lawyer and Secretary of State for New York: "Choosing the right hat to go with a costume gives me almost as much satisfaction as winning a case in court."

DOROTHY DRAPER, noted decorator: "I like the well-groomed effect of a hat planned to go with an outfit I wear my hat in the ofice all day, so as not to spoil the effect."

ALEXANDA DANILOVA, ballerina and choreographer: "I always choose a dramatic hat for a lecture date. I even wear a hat while directing rehearsals."

JOAN CRAWFORD, business executive and movie star: "I couldn't imagine dressing for the day and leaving off a hat. Hats are the very spice and life of a costume. That's why I wear my hat in the office—taking it off would spoil the complete effect I created so carefully that morning.

"The dress and hat are a unit, and neither should detract from the other. I interpret this rule by wearing a simple hat with an elaborate costume and gay flowered hats with simple outfits."

MRS. T. MARKO ROBERTSON, society leader: "A hat is an exclamation point to what you are trying to say about yourself. I like hats so well that I pick the hat first and then the outfit to go with it."

ANN SOUTHERN, TV and movie star: "I don't think anything else a woman wears has more subtle sex-appeal than a hat."

Philippine Food Is a Blend of East and West

By M. P. SARMIENTO

MANILA (AP)—Philippine food like Philippine culture, is a blend of East and West.

In many of the so-called native dishes here, it's easy to detect some Spanish, Chinese, American, German, French, Indian or Japanese flavor. The first three are probably the most dominant.

Hamburgers have found a home in the Philippines. So have ham and eggs for breakfast, Southern fried chicken for lunch and roast beef for dinner.

On the Oriental side, there's sweet-sour sauce which Filipinos like to serve with pork or fish dishes. It's as Chinese as a mandarin.

Filipinos also have a dish called "Pancit" which was lifted right out of a Chinese cookbook. It has a noodle base (either sauteed or served in a soup) with chopped pork, chicken, liver and vegetables thrown in. Housewives add chopped hardboiled eggs and ground nuts. Even Chinese say this version tastes better.

Chop suey is known the world over. The Filipino recipe for it calls for either pork, chicken or beef, with liberal helpings of shrimp, bits of fried chicken and chicken giblets.

Other Philippine dishes are as native to the Spanish plains as they are to this country.

Boiled rice is a staple here. When peas, olives, tomatoes and chopped sausage are added, it becomes "arroz a la Valenciana" (after Valencia in Spain).

Come fiesta time in any Filipino town, tables are loaded with "fritada"—fish, beef, pork or chicken fried and served with a sauce made of tomatoes, potatoes and peppers plus bread crumbs to thicken it. Another dish of Spanish origin.

Mix egg yolk, milk and sugar, steam or bake the mixture and you get a custard. Top it with caramel sauce and you get what the Spanish call "leche flan." It goes by the same name here.

The moral: A foreigner can come to this country and feel as though he never left home—or at least his dining room.

STUFFING CELERY

Always dry the inside of celery branches well when you plan to stuff them with a cheese mixture so the stuffing will adhere. Or instead of the cheese combination, mix peanut butter with a little mayonnaise and some hot sauce and use this mixture for the celery stuffing.

THE PHILADELPHIA son is a ship builder and Peine's daughter is the housekeeper for former U.S. Senator George Wharton Pepper.

Peine's ouster from Germany, due to the rise of the Nazi party, has kept him interested in politics.

"Statesmen today are fools. They break up one summit meeting and then want to start another. Such a waste of time and money is unexplainable," remark-Peine over his latest edition of a German language newspaper. He doesn't speak or read English.

He continued through an interpreter, "But nearing age 99, I only have an interest in the affairs of other men. I can't do anything or offer any remedies.

* * *

"WHEN A fellow gets to my age he has few wishes left in life. The secret of staying happy in old age is to accept things as they come," he explained.

A second thought seemed to sweep Peine's mind for he smiled and immediately added, "But I would enjoy living to the century mark."

To help him celebrate his 99th birthday tomorrow will be his relatives and many friends around Landis Store, who refer to Peine as "Opa." That's German for grandfather.

Among the celebrants in Peine's three-room cottage will be Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grampp, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Jensen and Mrs. Martha Teich. Grampp is a retired brewery worker who gives haircuts to Peine; Fritz also is a retired friend and Mrs. Teich cooks, washes and interprets for Peine.

PEINE'S LAST major illness was double pneumonia at age 88. His most recent ailment was a hangnail which was removed last year. He now is in apparently perfect condition.

But even if he doesn't reach 100, Peine still has a distinction. A census report revealed him to be the oldest man in the hills around Landis Store.

Church Names Rev. Boyer Home Missions Director

The Rev. Ralph A. Boyer 3d who recently resigned as pastor of the West Pikeland Lutheran parish, was named Tuesday as director of Lutheran home missions. The announcement came during the second day of the 213th Annual Convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

He was installed by the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Cooper, president of the ministerium, and the Rev. Richard C. Klick, president of the board of home missions.

The Rev. Boyer will be in charge of establishing new congregations in the Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware synod and will also work in keeping and assisting congregations in large city areas.

He will work with the Rev. Dr. Roy L. Winters of Spring City who is executive secretary of the board of home missions of the synod.

* * *

THE FOUR-DAY annual convention at Buck Hill Falls is being attended by most Pottstown and area Lutheran ministers and a lay representative of each church.

The ministerium is the oldest synod of the United Lutheran church in America (ULCA) and is represented by 542 congregations.

St. Andrew's Lutheran church of Audubon was accepted into the ministerium with the Rev. James Austin, pastor, representing the congregation at the synod.

After several years of debate, action was finally taken by the 750 pastors and lay delegates to the convention to regulate capital fund raising efforts by the synod senate on behalf of educational institutions and inner-mission agencies and institutions.

THE NEW regulation allows two capital fund appeals to be conducted through the congregations, one for educational purposes and one for inner-mission agencies and institutions to take place every ten years.

Institutions in both categories will still be able to solicit support of outside groups such as alumni and friends, but major appeals through congregations will be limited to two every ten years.

Each appeal may begin two years after the senate approval and will cover 18 months over a three year period. Another appeal may not begin until two years have lapsed. Emergency appeals, however, may be conducted as they arise.

Two theological seminaries may be merged into one large seminary, according to Dr. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Lutheran Theological seminary at Philadelphia. He said this possibility was one of six being considered for the future of the Philadelphia seminary and the Lutheran Theological seminary at Gettysburg. The location was not announced.

THIS IS one of the many possible changes in the work of the ULCA as it looks forward to the coming merger in 1962 with three other Lutheran bodies to form the new Lutheran church in America, said the Rev. L. Samuel Krouse, associate pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church.

After the synod Monday adopted the recommendation to congregations to improve the salary and other fringe benefits for all of its pastors, the synod took steps Tuesday to look into a group hospitalization plan for all pastors.

In a resolution proposed by Harry Burdan, lay delegate from Emmanuel, the synod will now look forward to action by the board of pensions of the ULCA which is also working in this direction and which will make known its facts to the synod next May, the Rev. Krouse said.

The Rev. Dr. A. Howard Week, president of the Lutheran synod of Illinois, spoke Tuesday morning as the official representative of the ULCA to this convention. He said the ULCA during 1961 should begin 135 new congregations in comparison to the 60 started in 1959 and 55 in 1960.

The Rev. Week will speak to the synod again today.

Ruthian Swats—They Built A House

Homers—Most Famous and Last

Babe Ruth, who hit 714 home runs plus 15 in World series during his career, is shown above hitting two of the more famous. 'Bambino' Bashed Final May 25, 1935

Babe Ruth's Last Homer Has Silver Anniversary

By DUKE DeLUCA
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Twenty-five years ago today the late George Herman Ruth hit three successive home runs at Forbes field, Pittsburgh.

A handful of spectators extended the usual applause accompanying a patented Ruthian wallop unsuspecting that they had just witnessed the final salvo from the bat of the greatest home run hitter in Major league history.

To those who came of age during the fabulous era of speakeasies, racoon coats, the Charleston and the presidential term of "Silent Cal" Coolidge, the name Ruth recalls a hulking figure supported by spindly legs who was loved by all and in the midst compiling an astounding number of records and almost as many nicknames.

"The Babe" . . . "The Sultan of Swat" . . . "The Old Bambino" were a few of the sobriquets tagged on the immortal when his name was a household word.

• • •

THE PRESENT generation, weaned on a steady diet of Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Ernie Banks, Hank Aaron etc., looks upon Ruth as an awesome giant, and rightly so, when records are discussed.

His single season high of 60 home runs in 1927 has yet to be equalled, although Jimmy Foxx and Hank Greenberg came close with 58 each.

And his career total of 714 out-of-the-park drives is still safe despite the fact the last entry was made on May 25, 1935.

The Babe's record list reads as long as the index page in a mail-order house catalog but it tells only part of the story of the man who has since become a baseball institution.

RUTH MADE his major league debut as a southpaw pitcher for the Boston Red Sox on July 11, 1914. He defeated the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, and picked up enough savvy to become the mainstay of the Boston staff as the Red Sox won consecutive pennants in 1915 and 1916.

He pitched the longest game in World Series play, 14 innings, in '16, and won it from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In 1918, Ruth led the Sox to another flag and set a still-standing record for most scoreless innings in World series play—29⅔.

He gave indications of what was to come by hitting 11 homers in 95 outfield efforts in '18 and 29 in 1919 when Boston converted him to a full time outer gardener.

• • •

THE NEW YORK YANKEES purchased The Babe in 1920 in a history-making deal that changed the fortunes of baseball.

The game was at a low ebb due to the Black Sox scandal of 1919 and the customers were staying away from ball parks.

Ruth brought them back in droves with his gargantuan home run clouts and baseball was saved from possible obscurity.

His color also helped click the turnstiles. So much so that Jacob Ruppert, the beer baron owner of the Yanks, built Yankee stadium through his star attraction. It was called, and still is by those who remember, "The House That Ruth Built."

• • •

Ruth lived his life in the same manner in which he hit home runs—high, wide and handsome. He lived on a lavish gigantic scale until sidelined by a throat cancer which claimed his life on Aug. 16, 1948.

Reams of copy have been written about his colorful ways, but the one incident worth retelling occurred in the 1932 World series against the Cubs

PETRO GETS MOUND CALL FOR TROJANS

Mendenhall Will Start For Red Raiders In Royersford Clash

Pottstown's Trojans and Coatesville are all set to try again today to settle the issue of who rules the Ches-Mont league baseball roost.

The two were to have made the decision Monday evening, but Jupiter Pluvius decided that it wasn't a good day. The two clubs then decided to bypass Tuesday, giving the grounds a good chance to dry off.

Coatesville is seeking the baseball crown to add to already won laurels in basketball and track. The Trojans, experiencing a lean year in sports, are nonetheless seeking their eighth baseball crown.

Red Raider coach Leo Atkinson Tuesday nominated Bill Mendenhall, the stylish right-hander who hurled Coatesville to the Lower section crown, to take up the Indian cause on the mound.

TROJAN COACH Carl Kolanko named Nick Petro as his starter last Friday and has stuck by his guns. Petro already holds a victory over the Raiders, which clinched the Upper section crown for the Trojans.

Kolanko said there was no reason for changing his pitching choice because of the predominately lefthanded Coatesville batting order, and the Trojans' other portsider, Eddie Wanish, still has a metal sliver in the index finger of his throwing hand.

Pottstown is playing in its first playoff since 1957. The Trojans have never lost a baseball playoff in Ches-Mont competition. The Raiders last held the title in 1958.

Game time for today's tilt is 3:30 at Spring-Ford High's diamond in Royersford.

THE RED RAIDERS will probably be without the services of catcher Lee Moore, who was injured during their section-clinching victory over Downingtown in a collision with the Whippets' George Miller.

If Moore is unable to work, Larry Cooper will be behind the plate for the Raiders, and with Bill Mendenhall on the mound, Dave Matejkovic, whose pinch single scored the winning run against the Whippets, will fill the shortstop gap.

The Trojans, who have finally found some semblance of a lineup, will start the game with Jim Clements behind the plate, Eddie Laws at first base, Pete Mauger at second, Bob Goodhart at shortstop and Barry Swartz at third.

In the outfield Eddie Wanish will be in right with Bob Yeager in center and Barry Saylor in left.

The Trojans are a slight favorite to win today, on the strength of their 9-4 victory in Coatesville earlier this year.

Sixty Babe Ruth Hitting Marks Still Stand 25 Years After Final Contest

In his 22 years in the major leagues, Babe Ruth amassed a total of 76 records, 60 of which still stand.

The battering Bambino, who came to the New York Yankees from the Boston Red Sox in 1920, at one time held nearly every record in the art of blasting home runs.

In addition, he had many marks in runs batted in, long distance hitting other than homers, and one or two to attest his value as a southpaw pitcher, which many present-day fans have forgotten.

Record books show that Ruth clubbed a total of 708 home runs in regular season games during his 21 years in the American league. He hit six more in two months of the 1935 season with the Boston Braves of the National league.

TO THIS record figure of 714 homers may be added the 15 blasted in 10 World series, but which are not included in his lifetime total.

The last flash of his greatness was on May 25, 1935, at Pittsburgh when the Babe, then closing out his illustrious career with the Braves, cracked three four-baggers in successive times at bat.

As a pitcher with the Red Sox before he came to the Yankees as a batsman, Ruth pitched and won the longest game in a World series, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1916 in 14 innings. He held the record for the greatest number of consecutive scoreless innings in World series play, having had 13 in 1916 and 16 in 1918 for 29 innings.

Ruth participated in more World series than any other player (until recently) three with the Red Sox and seven with the Yankees.

HE BATTED more than .300 in the most series—six—and held the highest batting percentage for a single series, .625, made in 1928 against the St Louis Cardinals.

He scored the most runs in World series games, the most in a single series, and the most in a single series game.

The Babe also batted in the most runs, 33, and the most in a single series, 10. His 15 round trippers are tops in World series competition as are his three in a single game, which he batted twice, in 1926 and 1928. He was far in front in almost all of the departments in total bases and long hits.

When Ruth hung up the then astounding record of 29 home runs in 1919, it brought about his purchase by Col. Jacob Ruppert and Col. Til Huston, then the owners of the Yankees.

RUTH REPORTED to manager Miller Huggins at the Yankees' training camp at Jacksonville, Fla., in 1920.

That season he astounded the baseball world by driving 54 homers, and the next year beat the mark with 59 to help the Yankees win their first pennant. They won again in 1922 and '23 and the latter year captured their first World championship. Although he set no home run records in those years, he had a batting average of .393 in 1923, the best he ever made.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit, however, won the batting title with a .403 mark that year. Ruth won the batting championship the following year with a .378 average.

It was not until 1927 that he set the major league record for homers which still stands, 60. He followed with 54 in 1928, and after that gradually slowed down. In 11 of the years he was with the Yankees, he made 40 or more homers.

On 70 occasions in his career he made two homers in a single game and on four times he slammed three in a game, twice in World series competition. On 16 occasions, he walloped home runs with the bases full, being topped only by Lou Gehrig in that department.

Jones Maintains Giants' Mastery Over Phils, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sam Jones pitched the San Francisco Giants into first place in the National League Tuesday night with a 4-0 four-hitter over the Philadelphia Phillies as he won his first road game in six starts.

The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's 4-2 loss to Los Angeles, moved the Giants eight percentage points ahead of the Pirates.

Jones did not walk a man. He retired the last 15 men in order to make his record 5-3.

Jones' made it 29 1-3 successive innings that the Phillies haven't been able to score against the Giants. It was Jones' second shutout, both against the Phillies and both against loser Jim Owens (2-5).

The Giants took advantage of three wild pitches, six walks and an error by Owens.

San Francisco jumped off to a one run lead in the first when Don Blasingame walked, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Willie Mays' double to center. The Giants added another in the third when Blasingame walked again, went to second on Mays' single and then scored on an error by Tony Taylor.

Schwenksville Subdues Upper Dublin Nine, 5-3

Schwenksville, on the strength of a four-run second inning, topped Upper Dublin, 5-3, Tuesday in an Inter-County league game at Schwenksville.

The Bluebirds collected four hits to score as many runs in the fruitful second. Ron Musselman's two-run double was the biggest blow.

The Cardinals jumped off to a 2-0 lead against Bob Walters in the first, but the Bluebird southpaw settled down thereafter and allowed the visitors just two hits and a singleton in the third over the last six innings.

Art Lewis and Bob Fad did the chucking for Upper Dublin with Lewis absorbing the loss.

Lee Johnson and John Rowland had two hits each for Schwenksville, which now owns a 2-8 league record.

The loss was the seventh for the Cardinals, who have won three times.

Al Dori's two-hit shutout pitching and a five-run fourth inning led St. Gabriel's to a 7-0 Church league win over Second Baptist at Memorial park Tuesday night.

Dori fanned 16 and issued but one pass to hang up his first victory. St. Gabriel's evened its league record at 1-1. Second Baptist was seeing its first action of the year.

Three Second Baptist pitchers worked in the game, but starter Joe Evans was tagged for all seven St. Gabriel's runs and all five hits. He also hurt his own cause with four free tickets.

St. Gabriel's pushed across a run in the top of the first, added another in the third before blowing the game wide open in the big fourth, bringing about Evans' premature departure from the game.

Centerfielder Lou Gresh bagged both Second Baptist hits.

A's Throneberry Paces 6-2 Win Over Red Sox 9

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Marv Throneberry, the forgotten man of the Kansas City Athletics, came off the bench Tuesday night and hit a home run, triple and a double as the A's tromped Boston 6-2 and mired the Red Sox deeper in the American League cellar.

Bud Daley picked up his fourth victory in six decisions. The defeat was saddled on Dave Hillman (6-1) who started and went 3 2-3 innings before being followed by Tom Borland and Mike Fornieles.

Throneberry tripled off Hillman, doubled off Borland and hit the homer off Fornieles.

The left-handed first baseman had been used principally as a pinch hitter after being traded from New York to the Athletics and had batted only 17 times for an average of .176.

'Cats Clinch 2d In Upper Section With 4-1 Win Over Conshohocken 9

CONSHOHOCKEN — Owen J. Roberts took sole possession of second place in the Ches-Mont league's Upper section Tuesday with a 4-1 triumph over Conshohocken on the losers' lot.

The Wildcats pushed across two runs in the top of the first as Mark Hennessy led off with a double, John Flahart walked and Charles Boyer drove Hennessy home with a sacrifice fly.

Jim Stauffer's single brought in Flahart with the second tally, and hung the 10th loss of the year on Joe Wodarski.

The Golden Bears got a run off starter and winner Paul Bodor in their half, but were to cause no more harassment.

Babe Ruth Hit Last Homer 25 Years Ago Today

in Chicago.

The Yankees were destined to wrap up the championship in four straight games and the Babe's feat in the third game may have had a lot to do with the sweep.

Ruth had hit an earlier homer before coming to the plate in the fifth with the score tied, 4-4. The catcalls from the stands and the Cub dugout angered the Babe to such an extent that he pointed to a spot in the distant bleachers and purposely took two strikes before driving Charley Root's next serve to the pointed sector.

In the twilight of his career, after his managerial ambitions had failed, Ruth joined the Boston Braves. He was close to 40 and his legs had grown weary.

He left the playing field forever following his final spree at Forbes field.

Logart Gets Nod In Denver Fight

DENVER, (AP) — Veteran Isaac Logart's ring savvy and sharp left jabs carried him to a unanimous decision over the Javellana Kid in the first of three 10-round bouts here Tuesday night.

Logart, 146½, controlled the match all the way against the sturdy 144½-pound Filipino who willingly absorbed all the steam Logart could muster.

Except for a slight cut inside Logart's mouth, neither fighter appeared marked by the action. There were no knockdowns.

Referee Bob Sauer scored the bout 48-44, Judge Joe Ullmer 49-43 and Ray Keech 49-44 all for Logart.

Baltimore Takes Over Following 6-1 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP) — Baltimore's high-flying Orioles took over the American League lead Tuesday night, defeating the Chicago White Sox 6-1 behind the seven-hit pitching of rookie Steve Barber.

The Sox dropped to third place, five percentage points behind Cleveland which defeated Washington 7-2.

The Orioles managed only seven hits off four Sox pitchers but got 13 walks — seven off starter Herb Score.

Barber, a 21-year old southpaw had the White Sox handcuffed. He walked two and struck out five. Chicago's only run came in the sixth on a leadoff triple by Minnie Minoso and an infield out by Ted Kluszewski. The victory was the fourth for Barber against one loss.

Score, now 1-3, walked the bases loaded in the first inning but got out of the jam by fanning Ron Hansen.

Brooks Robinson opened a decisive fourth inning with a single but was wiped out when Hansen bounced into a double play. Dave Nicholson the $110,000 bonus baby, drew a walk and Clint Courtney singled. Score also walked Barber. Then Marv Breeding, who had fanned twice, singled to right for two runs. Gene Woodling followed with a run-scoring single and Jackie Brandt drew a pass to again load the bases.

Buckaneers Top Upper Perkiomen In B-M Tilt 4-0

Central Bucks' baseballers unloaded a nine-hit barrage against Upper Perkiomen's Larry Benner, and blanked the Indians, 4-0 in a Bux-Mont tilt at East Greenville Tuesday.

Charles Rosenberger kept the Indians at bay with a five-hit, 11-strikeout hill job, and though Benner was hit hard, he scattered the blows except for the fourth and seventh innings.

Three of the Buckaneer hits were for extra bases, and each figured in the scoring. Paul Younger unloaded a two-run triple in the fourth, but was thrown out at the plate in his bid for a home run.

Jim Evers led off the seventh with a bases-empty homer and Ernie Johnson doubled in the final run.

The loss was the 11th of the year for the winless Indians, who were also led at the plate by Benner, who collected two of the five hits.

Spring City Legion Team Cards Workout

The Spring City American Legion Junior baseball team, which was rained out in its initial practice of the season Monday, will hold a workout this evening at 6 o'clock on the Spring-Ford Junior high field in Spring City.

The Red Sox, of the Ches-Mont Legion league, are seeking candidates for the team. Any interested boys are urged to report to the field in time for the workout.

Manager George Neborak and assistants Clay Shaner and Ben LaPish will be on hand to greet candidates.

Continentals Back 'Free' Draft Law, Frick Accuses Shea of Misquotation

NEW YORK, (AP — The Continental league Tuesday recommended that the Kefauver bill substitute an unrestricted player draft for a clause that would limit control to 100 players by each major league baseball team.

Bill Shea, founder of the proposed third major league, announced the recommendation at a press conference.

He said that commissioner Ford Frick and minor league head George Trautman had testified last week before the Senate Anti-Monopoly subcommittee that an unlimited draft would be acceptable to the major leagues.

Under the restricted draft, all players, except the 40 men on each major league roster, could be drafted at a set price. Currently the major league draft is limited to first year men and those with four years experience in organized baseball.

FRICK VEHEMENTLY denied that either he or Trautman had testified that an unrestricted draft would be acceptable.

"I said I didn't want either the player control clause or the unrestricted draft," said Frick. "I told the committee I was against any sort of legislation by the government. I don't think the government has any business stepping into the picture at all.

"All legislation should be left up to baseball itself. I'll continue to fight against government legislation as vigorously as I can.

"I was asked which would be more acceptable to baseball, control or unrestricted draft. I said neither would be acceptable but if baseball had to have one or the other, we probably could live better with the unrestricted draft. That would be the lesser of two evils."

SHEA ALSO proposed an arbitration committee be appointed by the commissioner to settle the difference between the Continental league and the American association and International leagues regarding indemnity.

The International league is demanding $850,000 each for the franchises of the Toronto and Buffalo clubs. The American association, which at first asked for a million dollars for each of its four clubs—Houston, Denver, Dallas-Ft. Worth and Minneapolis-St. Paul—recently notified the Continental league it won't discuss indemnity until after the end of the season. The Continental has offered what amounts to $125,000 for each club.

"I propose that the chief justice of each State in which one of our cities is involved be asked to arbitrate," said Shea. "If that is unacceptable to Frick, we'd be agreeable to anyone he named. We're in favor of any method as long as it's done immediately.

"I'm positive they approach it on the basis of cooperation and if Frick takes the mantle of commissionership and sets up machinery immediately, our people will certainly be willing to go along. All we want are reasonable and just terms."

When asked for comment about Shea's arbitration proposal, Frick said, "The Continental league never has made any honest attempt to arbitrate."

Pirates Lose NL Lead as Dodgers Gain 4-2 Win On Podres' Hurling

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Los Angeles Lefty Johnny Podres knocked the Pittsburgh Pirates out of first place in the National League Tuesday with an eight-hitter, good for a 4-2 Dodgers' victory.

The Pirates, beaten two straight by the fifth-place Dodgers, fell eight percentage points, .647 to .639, behind the San Francisco Giants who won 4-0 at Philadelphia.

Los Angeles now has won three straight, its longest streak of the season.

Gil Hodges' two-run homer in the second inning was the big blow for the Dodgers, who sewed up the victory with two unearned runs in the fifth.

Podres struck out five and walked the same number in picking up his third victory against four defeats.

The Dodgers scored all their runs off Pirate starter Joe Gibson. The Pittsburgh lefty, charged with his second loss against three victories, went five innings.

Paul Giel and Fred Green finished up for the Pirates, each giving Los Angeles only one hit.

Boston to Tucson, The Hard Way

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — One month and $1000 later Mrs. Kate Boyle made it from Boston to Tucson in her 1956 model car.

Mrs. Boyle says she was delayed in Maryland two days by a snowstorm. Her brakes failed near Columbus, Ga., and she roared into a field and struck a cow. Two days were needed for repairs.

Influenza laid her up for six days in Macon, Ga. Her car stopped in Uniontown, Ala., and she spent $585 for a new motor. In Jackson, Miss., the auto went dead again. The Uniontown dealer towed it 250 miles back to his shop and worked on it for four days.

The car then broke down in Texas and again in New Mexico.

"Who said traveling was fun?" Mrs. Boyle asked.

Delegates to United Church of Christ Meeting Vote Against Changes in Proposed Constitution

Delegates attending the 22nd annual meeting of the Philadelphia Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church of the United Church of Christ at St. Paul's Fort Washington, Tuesday evening, voted down three attempts to make changes in the proposed new constitution of newly merged United Church of Christ.

A revised constitution was sent to each of the 34 district synods this Spring for study and discussion before being considered at an adjourned meeting of the General Synod of the denomination at Cleveland in July. The general synod is the highest judiciatory in the denomination.

The proposed constitution will spell out details of a merger of the former Evangelical and Reformed church and the Congregational Christian churches forming the United Church of Christ. First steps in the merger were taken in 1957. Dr. Donald Helfferich, president of Ursinus college, is a member of the constitution committee working on the final form of the document.

Present plans call for consideration of the constitution at the Cleveland meeting this Summer. It will then be referred next Spring to district synods for final approval and will be officially adopted at the third biennial meeting of the general synod of the United Church of Christ in Philadelphia in 1961.

DELEGATES Tuesday evening voted down proposals that would have put the synod on record favoring a separate council on education as against a council for higher education as now proposed in the new constitution; refused to recommend that terms of executive secretaries for boards and agencies of the denomination be limited to a certain number of years, and refused to take steps that would have placed the work of evangelism in a separate council as against it being in the Board for Home land Ministries where it is placed in the proposed constitution.

The discussion at last evening's two and one half hour session was limited to matters pertaining to the implementation of the basic policy and structure of the proposed constitution as found in "The Basis of Union," a document previously approved by synods and district conferences of the two denominations now working out their merger.

Yesterday's session began with a communion service attended by approximately 175 ministers and lay delegates representing 85 congregations of the denomination located in Montgomery, Bucks and Chester counties and the city of Philadelphia, and the Levittown area of New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Area ministers and laymen elected to various committees included the Rev. Ann B. Cordray, pastor of the Pikeland church, Chester county to the committee on Christian Education, Mrs. Alfred Wilcox, Collegeville, to the committee on Social Action, the Rev. Howard A. Kosman, pastor of Zion's church, to the Historical committee, the Rev. Vernon E. Firme and Raymond Prizer, Brownback's church, Chester county, to the committee on International Missions, the Rev. C. William Ebbert, pastor of St. Paul's church and Warren F. DeLong, Trinity church, to the committee on Liturgics, Titus Stoneback, First Church, Spring City, to the committee on Pensions and Relief, Stanley L. Emory, Zion's church, to the committee on United Promotion, Amy Eaches, Spring City, to the board of managers of the Wyncote Home for the Aged.

The Rev. Franklin P. Watts, pastor of First Church, Royersford, was re-elected to the board of managers of the Bethany Home for Children, Womelsdorf, and Mrs. John B. Frantz, Trinity Church, was elected to a six-year term on the board of trustees of Hood college, Frederick, Md. The Rev. Dr. John B. Frantz, pastor of Trinity Church, was elected to a three-year term on the synod's Church and Ministry committee.

TODAY VOTING will be completed for ministerial and lay delegates to the meetings of the general synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church, and of the merged United Church of Christ, to be held in Philadelphia in 1961.

Included in the business session Tuesday were reports from the committee on Overtures by the Rev. Kosman, chairman, and the committee on nominations, Dr. Frantz, chairman.

The Rev. Paul C. Scheirer, pastor of St. John's, Pottstown and St. Paul's church, Stowe, announced his retirement as adviser to the Youth Fellowship groups of the synod, after serving in the capacity for the past ten years. The announcement was included in a report by the committee on Christian Education. Carl Bade, director of the Volunteer Youth Center at Camp Fern Brook, Chester county, also reported on the church Summer camp program sponsored by the committee.

Controversial issues in the report from the committee of Social Action will be faced at today's session. Delegates will be called upon to declare themselves on the issue of capital punishment, and the question of housing integration. Reports on evangelism, stewardship, united promotion, student work benevolent institutions and pensions and relief will also be considered. A recognition of candidates for ordinaton will also be given at this morning's session.

Ministers and lay delegates from the area who attended yesterday's sessions included: Trinity, Dr. Frantz and Mrs. Howard I. J. Stauffer, Zion's, the Rev. H. Kosman, Harold Scheffy and Stanley Emery; St. Paul's.

The Rev. Ebbert and Wilson A. Christman; St. John's-St. Paul's, Stowe, the Rev. Scheirer and T. Frank Bichart; Shenkel, Clarence Yocum and Lester Yocum; Brownback's, the Rev. Firme and Donald Nelson; St. Luke's, Trappe, Irwin Gromis; Trinity, Collegeville, Dr. Alfred Creager and Mrs. Edward S. Fretz; St. Matthew's, Anselma.

The Rev. Norman Dettry, Nevin Myer and Harold Firestone; St. Peter's, Pikeland, the Rev. Paul Yoh.
